Immediate Claim Reporting Advantages

1. It shows the employee you care about the employee's well being.
2. The employee, the supervisor and any witness are available while memories fresh and important details are not forgotten.
3. The immediate reporting of the claim allows the adjuster and nurse case manager the opportunity to guide treatment, possibly eliminating disruptions of care or even attorney involvement.
4. Studies have shown a 3-day delay in reporting a claim added an average of 16% to the medical claim cost and 38% to the indemnity cost, and increased attorney involvement by 50%. A month's delay in reporting the workers compensation claim increased the settlement cost by 48%.
